Landscape ecology is the study of the interactions between the temporal and spatial aspects of a landscape and its flora, fauna, geophysical and cultural components.

The International Association of Landscape Ecology (IALE) encourages landscape ecologists to transcend boundaries and to work together to develop understanding of this landscape pattern and process. ialeUK is the UK chapter of IALE.

What does ialeUK do?

- Organises a conference each year
- Arranges topical workshops
- Publishes conference proceedings
- Produces information notes
- Runs a website and produces a newsletter
- Links with other European chapters and full IALE
- Represents its members on the IALE Board of Council
- Offers student travel grants

IALE's Journal: Landscape Ecology

IALE works with Springer to produce this flagship journal in the rapidly developing fields of ecology and sustainability science of landscapes. The journal focuses on highly inter- and transdisciplinary studies, aggregating expertise from biological, geophysical, and social sciences to explore the formation, dynamics and consequences of spatial heterogeneity in natural and human-dominated landscapes.

Why join ialeUK?
